

Executive Advisory Council
Potential Conflict of Interest Disclosure

This Potential Conflict of Interest Disclosure form is intended to protect both the University and the Department of Computer and Electrical Engineering and Computer Science (CEECS) Executive Advisory Council (EAC) members by affording the University ample opportunity to detect and forestall any potential conflicts.

To allow the Council and the CEECS Department to monitor and promptly address any potential conflicts, please (i) identify below any relationships, financial or personal, that may create potential conflicts of interest, or (ii) confirm that no such conflicts or potential conflicts are known to exist.

The following represent interests or relationships that may potentially conflict with my position as Member of the CEECS EAC:

1. Personal, immediate familial, or business relationships including employment or provision of outside professional services that might reasonably give rise to a conflict involving the University.
2. Outside interests, financial or otherwise (any interests or position which you or any member of your family hold in any outside concern from which the University obtains goods or services, or which provides services competing with the University), that might reasonably give rise to a conflict involving the University.
3. Any other potential issues or conflicts.

___ I have the following conflicts:

___ As of today's date, I have no financial, professional, or personal relationships that reasonably hold the potential for a conflict of interest involving my service as a member of the CEECS Executive Advisory Council.

I have disclosed all potential conflicts of interests of which I am aware, and I agree to promptly file a further Potential Conflict of Interest Disclosure form if any additional matters subject to disclosure arise before my next annual disclosure is due.
